Its Contents the Subject of Testimony in the Arnold-Kramer Trial Today. The Schneider execution was on the tongue of almost every man who entered the Criminal Court this morning to take part in or listen the Arnold-Kramer homicide trial. The prisoner arrived from the jail about the usual time, but he showed no evidence of being disturbed on account of the scene at the jail in the early morning hours. He, however, had discussed the affair, and the much worse than the execution itself. It was a few minutes after 10 o'clock when the prisoner arrived at court, in charge of Deputy Marshal Springman, and a few minutes later Mr. Davis called a boy named Jerome Lyons. He testified that while Kramer boarded at his (witness') mother's house he ipanion for the past year, only worse at showed witness a large revolver. Witness thought it was a navy revolver.

The next witness sworn was a colored waiter named George Hawkins. He had worked for Mr. White, the ladies' tailor, where he met Kramer. Witness was present when Kramer and White had a difficulty about money matters and Kramer assaulted White.
"What did he say to Mr. White, if anything?"

asked Mr. Davis.

"He said something about a knife," replied witness. "I think he said, 'I'll get even with so with the republican majority in Massachuwitness. "I think he said, 'I'll get even with you and I'll knife you."

He thought Kramer had a very ugly dispo-sition. In this connection Mr. Davis said he would like to offer in evidence the Police Court

"The future of the democratic party in Massachusetts is very bright and it is developing and expanding in a manner which gratifies the rank and file exceedingly. The tariff question and the sound principles of the democratic platform have ballasted the party, while the people have an abiding and abundant faith in Mr. Cleveland and his ability to carry out the party principles. record of the case, which he read, showing that Kramer was fined $1 for the assault. KRAMER'S TRUNK.

Mr. Arthur Kemp, representing the property clerk of the police department, was next called, and he gave evidence as to the condition of Kramer's trunk. The trunk was in court. Witness said the trunk was not in the condition now that it was when he first saw it. A valise, he said, had been put in the trunk to keep it from getting misplaced, and the contents were not in the same good order. Witness had met Kramer when he appeared as a witness in a case before the police trial board. He was not familiar with the deceased's handwriting. Witness said that when Mr. Block made an examination of the trunk and valise he remembered seeing a number of cartridges, a razor and a number of letters in the trunk, but witness was unable to give any definite information about the particular letters wanted.

Mr. Davis also asked witness about some scraps of paper, the original manuscript of Kramer's advertisements in the newspapers, and he gave evidence as to the condition of scraps of paper, the original manuscript of Kramer's advertisements in the newspapers, but witness did not know just where to find them, and he was excused for awhile. Detective Mattingly next gave evidence con-cerning the trunk and its contents.

Mrs. Kramer had told witness that she was fired of working and she thought that Kramer could comfortably support her, as he was get-ting a good salary. Before Kramer came on the scene witness had heard of Laura Bowman's marriage to a man named King.

Witness questioned her concerning an alleged scandal in the country, and she finally admitted that she had done wrong, and said she wanted to reform and do better.

KRAMER'S VISIT TO FRONT ROYAL. Col. J. D. Sublett of Front Royal, manager of the Hotel Royal at that place, testified that he headforemost into the lake, losing his knife. Alice Mitchell in the Asylum. When the legislative visiting committee went through the West Tennessee Asvium for the Insane at Bolivar, says the Louisville Courier Journal, their attention was naturally directed more to Alice Mitchell than to all the other patients. They found the slayer of her girl friend in fine physical condition. She has never been ill a day in the nine months of her confinement. She has gained twenty pounds in weight and is as handsome a girl as one could wish to see. Mentally, however, she shows no improvement. She seems content with her lot, and has very little to say about the outside world.

A courting couple in the park: He-"Is she happy, 'ittle ootsy-wootsy?" She-"Oh, so happy. Is topsy-wopsy happy?"

He-Oh, so happy."
She-"What would topsy-wopsy do if there was no ootsy-wootsy in the world?' Gruff voice of a man in the bushes—"Topsy wopsy would be hugging some other girl."

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE IN SIZE between Dr. Pierce's Pellets and every other pill. The Pellets are smeller. And this difference in size, with their sugar - coating makes them the easiest to take.

But there's a difference all through. They're easiest in the way they act.

No griping, no reactive. But there's a difference all through. They re easiest in the way they act. No griping, no violence, no reaction afterward. They do permanent good. They regulate the system, as well as cleanse and renovate it.
